

VERY IMPORTANT!

All Pricing Spreadsheets are reflective of C.G.C.
Product only!

These prices are the result of prices realized from sales of C.G.C. product, NOT raw notes and NOT notes in other slabbed holders!

You can NOT compare (realistically) C.G.C. prices realized with other notes (raw or graded by other companies) with similar expectations.

Recent EXAMPLES:

CGC –65 Bison sold for $5.5k, competitors 65 offered at $3.3k
CGC –66 Bison sold for $12.5k, competitors 65 offered at $6.5k
CGC – 65 $1 Ed (fr.224) sold for $3.5k, competitors 65 sold $2.2k
CGC – 65 Chief (same fr.#) sold $4.3k, competitors 65 sold $1.8k
CGC – 65 $500 '34a sold $4.2k, competitors 65 sold for $2.4k
CGC – 65 $1,000 '34a sold for $9.5k (ebay) competitors 65 $3.5k CGC – 65 1168 $10 GC sold $3.5k, competitors 65 sold for $1.8k
CGC – 65 $10 '28 Gold sold $1.9k, competitors 65 sold for $1k

(*examples go on endlessly, the point is not all grading services realize equal values (as in the coin industry), and figures should not used for raw or other slabbed product).

Independent Grading & the Future of the Market!

Goldline $10 Million Discovery!

By: Mark Albarian

Pres. & CEO of Goldline Int'l

When Professional Coin Grading Service first announced that it was going to revolutionize the grading of U.S. rare coins, many coin dealers were concerned that independent grading would hurt their business.

"Fr.71 1880 $5 WoodChopper"
"Atlantic Collection" CGC-65 GEM!

They were concerned that trusting a third party to evaluate the coins they were selling to clients would be a serious financial mistake, alleviating coin investors of the need for dealers. Without the dealer's opinion on grade, what other value could he or she offer?

Now, 20 years later, the rare coin business has greatly expanded. If you asked coin dealers around the country what the single most important event in the last 20 years that accounted for the increase in the size of the market and the profitability of most coin dealers was, I bet the most common answer would be "independent grading".

and the dealers.

Most recently at the Long Beach show I listened closely as dealers told me, "Joe, for the first time in about 20 years I'm not able to buy anything!" With a state of panic in their voices and faces, you can see clearly that collectors are "rushing" to fulfill their sets.

It doesn't take a rocket scientist to see what has happened: Existing collectors have witnessed escalating prices beyond their imagination and instead of thinking that it must be a good time to sell they're thinking, it's a good time to buy more and get their desired pieces now before its too late. Secondly, new collectors are rushing in at rates that parallel the speed of a proton. These new collectors are coming in from the coin market (with increased awareness of truly how scarce paper money is) and from increased interest caused by the new Rainbow notes (2004's). Tertiary (fancy word for thirdly, ha), investors are coming –investors are coming!!!

Investors are not shy about their discontent in the stock market and it's associated volatility! Putting their money in other people's hands (people called executives who like to buy $35k toilet seats) is not their idea of low risk by any means and have decided NOT to go back! One thing is for sure; there is currently no end in

In my view, the rare currency market in some ways functions as though 20 years behind the coin market. Independent grading is becoming more and more prevalent, but there are many who still feel that its widespread usage will not be advantageous to the market or their business. They offer a number of reasons why it will not work with rare paper money, some of which are similar to those given by coin dealers in the mid-1980s. I believe that 20 years from now, when you look back at currency prices and the currency market, you will see independent grading credited as the number one reason for both an upsurge of currency prices and also an increase in collectors and sellers of rare currency. In other words, rare currency has the opportunity to benefit from independent grading in much the same way as coins have benefited.

For the seller to represent the quality of the item he or she is selling presents a potential conflict of interest. Independent grading offers a third party view, which I believe is the single most important benefit. My firm, Goldline International, Inc. (www.Goldline.com) was fortunate enough to handle the Atlantic Collection of Large Size U.S. currency from the 1800s.

Goldline has long been the home, often exclusively, of incredible coin collections such as the Wells Fargo® Nevada Gold collection of 1908 'No Motto' Saint-Gaudens double eagles, the Binion Collection of silver dollars, and the Nevada Silver collection of high grade Walking Liberty half dollars. We, however, had never before heard of, let alone handled anything comparable to the Atlantic Collection (www.AtlanticCollection.com) in currency.

"PRICING, GRADING & POPULATION SUMMARY"

This is a "Retail Publication," and is designed to reflect current market prices. These prices are procured from many sources, including: Dealers, Internet auctions, previous auction houses "prices realized," striving to reflect current market prices. If the Note Type contains a range of Fr.#'s, then the listed price reflects the most common Fr.#. This publication is in NO way instructing or suggesting for its readers to purchase at these levels. Grading ranges from Very Good (MS 8) to Premium Gem (MS 68). The listed prices were gathered from both professionally graded and independently graded "sold" notes. We did denote the observation that prof. graded notes generally sold for higher prices than independently graded notes. A Population Summary column is listed for ea. Note Type, many times with a range of Fr.#'s. Example: Fr.#100-102 (1880 $10 Legal Tender) shows 24-6-38 in the Population column-meaning there are 24 notes in CU & up for Fr.#100, 6 notes (in CU & up) for Fr.#101 & 38 notes (in CU & up) for Fr.#102. If you see +++ there are likely more out there than reported.

Let's Talk

One of the most interesting aspects of our sale of the Atlantic Collection is that our clients were primarily coin investors and collectors. Few had any previous exposure to rare currency, but in all, over 500 of our clients acquired more than $10,000,000 worth of these rare notes. Although we have not released detailed information about the contents of the collection, I can tell you there were over 1,000 Large Size notes in extremely high-grade condition. The collection contained, among other pieces, Nineteenth Century $5, $10, and $20 Legal Tender Notes.

Our clients chose to acquire these notes in many different ways. Some collected by series of note and others by type. Still others chose to acquire notes so that they would have at least one $5, $10, and $20 Legal Tender Note each. At least two clients assembled complete sets of Atlantic Collection notes, and collected multiple notes within type. One very important and fortunate feature of these notes is that many were in consecutive Serial Number order, allowing investors and collectors to acquire multiple notes in consecutive order rather than breaking them up. A fair number of clients went so far as to purchase notes in Cut Sheet sets or even multiple Cut Sheet sets. We did not charge a premium for consecutive notes or Cut Sheets, even though I believe they were worth more in such groupings.

Even though we believe that these notes could have been sold to current collectors and investors of rare paper money, we decided to offer them to our existing Goldline clients, many of whom had never purchased paper money before. When we considered how we could best serve our clientele, we came to the conclusion that Currency Grading & Certification (CGC) was the best choice to offer an independent evaluation of the grade of our notes. We were impressed with CGC's service and confidentiality from our first discussions with them.

Additionally, our clients who were accustomed to coins protected in sonically sealed plastic holders were comfortable and impressed with the holdering and packaging by CGC. The holders offer clear viewing of the entire note, protection from the elements and human handling, and the security of knowing the item was not tampered with after authentication. Obviously, one could still take any note out of its holder, but doing so would break the certification seal.

It also made sense to our clients that an independent third party expert evaluated the quality of the notes. For rare coin investors and collectors to now have a choice to also acquire independently graded currency offers a huge potential. Many of these collectors and investors only buy graded coins, and it would make sense that they would only want to buy graded currency as well. A growing usage of a reputable independent grading company would afford many more rare coin and precious metal investment firms the opportunity to also offer rare currency.

Currently, many currency dealers feel comfortable grading the notes that they buy. But will new collectors and investors comfortable relying on the seller assigning the grades? Common sense dictates many will not. Independent grading offers paper money collectors the same opportunities as those that acquire rare coins to purchase notes over the telephone or internet on a sight unseen basis, depending of course on the reputation of the grading company. Independent grading should be embraced by the dealer community as a way to increase the market for rare currency, by making grades more transparent, and bringing more demand and liquidity to the market. In turn, this should raise prices, create even more clients, and push dealers into more marketing. The end result is a greatly expanded market. Everyone wins – the dealer, the seller, and the buyer.

CGC's sealed hard plastic holders offered in conjunction with standardized grading (which CGC publishes and has submitted to the American Numismatic Association for consideration) is the wave of the future. I would challenge the paper money community to support the efforts of independent grading for the comfort of the collector and for the future of the hobby.
